Tuition Raise

Recently the Collegian published a copy of President Chalmers' letter to parents and students announcing the increase in tuition. This move, which is naturally of vital interest to alumni, seems to be the result of several factors which have changed the financial outlook of the college in recent years. Nor is Kenyon the only college to feel this pressure. It has become more evident during recent years that the small college must protect its interests; and what with the poor years for investments, almost all the top flight colleges small and large have recently boosted tuition. Harvard and Haverford are the notable exceptions to this list, and both of these institutions have very high endowments.

A glance at recent statistics show that as the yield on Kenyon investments has gone down, due to the depression years; the tuition has not taken a corresponding swing upward. Naturally this step was inevitable, if we are to expect that Kenyon will continue to spend more per year for the education of each student than any other men's college in Ohio.

The letter also contained the news that scholarship men on 'general scholarships will be given the opportunity to prove to the Scholarship Committee that their work is deserving of a corresponding increase. If it is the Committee has been authorized to increase these stipends. The Kenyon Prize Scholars will automatically receive the increase. Under these circumstances the tuition change seems to be an unavoidable inconvenience which was done because it was necessary for the future well being of the College.

Letters To The Editor - - - - -

Gambier, Ohio
March 3, 1940
Editor, Kenyon Collegian
Dear Sir:

The conduct of the Kenyon students during the Matriculation Service in the chapel last Friday deserves, I think, a letter of criticism. Such behaviour would have been disgusting if it had been a matter of grade school children, but among college students it is intolerable. Even though the men of the college may have no respect for the Church, they might at least respect the wishes of those who do. During the short period of private devotion before the opening of the service, there was so much chattering and yelling that it was quite impossible even to hear the organist's prelude; the service was further marred by wrestling matches and unnecessary applause. I feel that the distinguished guest of the college, who happened to be attending that service, may have an impression of "the Kenyon gentleman" somewhat different from that usually held by Kenyon men. It makes one ashamed to be called a student of Kenyon College. Most interesting is the fact that the freshmen conducted themselves in a way far superior to that of the upper classmen; I have no doubt that their upper-classmen fraternity brothers will soon instruct them in the proper way to participate in the Church service. I suppose that one should be pleased with the improvement over last year's service — at least hymnals and prayer books were not thrown through the nave — but there is still much to be desired. I suggest that Kenyon men consider seriously the qualities which constitute a gentleman.

Sincerely yours,
A KENYON GENTLEMAN

Gentlemen:

Kenyon men have always prided themselves on being gentlemen and are among the first to condemn any insignificant breach of etiquette. Like most pseudo-gentlemen we overlook the basic tenets of courtesy. Even the most ignorant ditch-digger seems to know more about matters of etiquette that count than we do. Nothing is more disgusting than the boorish display which most Kenyon "gentlemen" put on in the chapel. One might at least have the decency to reflect one's home training in church even though one is too small to respect the desire of others to worship God. Perhaps I am assuming too much to assume that you have ever had such training. If so let me proceed to give you the most elementary lessons.

Some of us have not yet reached that stage of sophistication which is today considered "smart" known as blasphemy. When a gentleman enters a house consecrated to God, whether he believes in what the church represents or not, he is well bred enough to maintain an attitude of reverence if only out of respect to the beliefs of others. Child play and rowdiness are merely marks of the immature mind and of poor home training. If you have no respect for the church, you might at least respect the advantages at Kenyon College made possible through the endowments of the church and of churchmen.

I am particularly disgusted with Episcopal undergraduates who haven't got enough grit to stand on their two feet and stand up for the religion which they professed in their Baptism and Confirmation vows. Applauding disrespect for a faith purchased at the cost of life and limb marks you as a traitor to your God and Church. Fraternity and other such rituals are looked upon with a holier than holy awe, and yet you have the face to cheapen the most sacred ritual of all, the ritual of your religion of which you are not at all worthy.

If being a gentleman at Kenyon means that one has to have a crude personality covered with a very thin and cheap veneer of would be sophistication, I will have none of it. I hope that what I have said will penetrate through the calloused conformity shells of at least a few of the Kenyon "gentlemen."

why yes, pango!

Pango is reading the newspaper nodding his head and frowning. That isn't common sense, he mumbles, that just isn't common sense. Tell me, I interrupt his thoughts, what is common sense. That question, says Pango thoughtfully, is very difficult to answer. You use the expression often, I object, you must know what it means. Yes, says Pango, but I can explain it only by the use of an example. Go ahead, I say, I'm listening.

Well, Pango begins, you know that all the vast government expenditures were justified by calling them pump priming. The money spent by the government was supposed to start private funds to circulate, and thus bring prosperity back through the readjustment of our distribution. That, exclaims Pango, was not common sense. Why not, I ask, when you pour water into an old fashioned water pump it starts to draw water.

That is right, says Pango, but that is not what the government did. They merely took the water (or money) from one well and threw it down another. They did not even get close to the pump which circulates private capital. The fact that the banks are overflowing with cash reserves which they cannot circulate is sufficient proof that private money has not been encouraged to circulate, but even encouraged not to circulate. Well, I ask perplexed, what is the pump of private capital. Business, answers Pango. But, I object, the government could not pour money into business. Business would never stand for that kind of government regulation. It seems common sense to me, says Pango, that business would rather have government money poured into it than to have its money dragged out of it by taxation.

Well, I ask, how could this be done. This way, says Pango. The government could grant money to business, both established and new, on a forty-sixty basis with the provision that the government's forty percent could be spent only for hiring new men. Well, I say, do you think business would accept an offer of that kind from the government. I don't see why not, says Pango, it is common sense that they would benefit from it. Why, I ask, when they have to borrow sixty percent from banks to whom they will have to repay it. It has always been the custom, says Pango, for American businesses to desire expansion.

But why should they expand, I ask, when they cannot sell their total production now. That item, explains, brings in the factor of price. But it is common sense that when production is increased, prices must be lowered. That enables everyone to get articles at less cost, and it enables many people to buy articles who could not buy them before. Well, I ask, what difference does all that make to business if they do not make any more money out of increased production. Because, explains Pango, that is the only justification of a free enterprise, capitalistic economy, and if that kind of progress is not followed, the entire system will collapse.

In other words, I say, this method of really priming the pump is necessary to put our economic system back into good functioning condition. That is right, says Pango. It sounds like common sense, I say, but I still don't know what common sense is. Well, says Pango, common sense means doing the right thing.

That's right, I say, I guess.

Kenyon Painting Subjected To The Scrutiny Of Collegian Art Critic

Kenon men going through Philo Hall on their way to various classes have had the opportunity of seeing the first exhibition of the art classes this year. A large collection, the group of oils fills all available space, and testifies to the rapidly growing interest in painting among Kenyon men.

The larger part of the show is devoted to landscapes, most of which were painted from Pierce Hall Tower, and so correspondingly from oblique angles. The rest with the exception of a portrait are still lifes.

The landscapes constitute the best part of the exhibition; the still lifes, with the exception of several studies of a bowl of onions, are dull and of not much interest. The reason for this is not the fault of the painters, but rather involved in the mechanics of the subjects from which they painted. Undoubtedly there are "problems" inherent in the subject matter, but arbitrarily, the "problems" are not of much moment. That is to say, the problems, lack subtlety to the point of being merely mechanical; and good intentions and faithfulness in reproducing them does not lessen their obviousness.

The studies of onions to which I am referring display on the whole the most imaginative originality to be found in the exhibition. Of course, there is an exception or two: McNary's "Indian Bowl," which is interesting for its dramatic qualities; and Hocman's "Study of Oranges," which, despite its frivolous colours, has good painting quality and a certain amount of compositional subtlety. But among the good onion studies, Cavender's in particular ought to be mentioned. He has added greater complexity and better colour contrasts by the injection of imaginative treatment in the background. McNary's too, has been helped by his attention to the background, particularly in varying the intensity of the red. Smith also gets some interesting results by the substitution of a red checked cloth beneath the bowl of onions.

Among the landscapes, Cavender again comes to the fore with less than a quarter of his canvas "View of Gambier." I refer to the lower right hand corner. There he is shown at his best. He has done for a section the best piece of painting in the show. Impressionistic in technique, and firm and fresh in colour, this one part reveals that Cavender might become a really good painter. Unfortunately the rest of the painting is inferior, in my estimation. The great tree plastered in the middle of the picture is not of sufficient interest in itself to compensate for the space it occupies. Not only does it destroy the continuity of the composition, but hardly allows for the picture to even partially resolve itself.

Brouse has one interesting landscape in his developing individual style, built in composition on a series of diamond patterns. His colour spotting is good, and in harmony with his composition.

Hoffman has on exhibition an industrial scene, which, if the subject matter within it were focused properly might develop into something really good.

There are several other paintings that have commendable elements. Among them are works by Welty, Harris, Clements and Cuthbert.

The most serious lacks in the exhibition as a whole are composition and intellectual curiosity. The painting technique is superior to either one. It would be interesting to see what might happen if more interest were paid to the intricacies of composition, and a more selective imagination worked upon the conventional subject matter.

Cummings Addresses Amherst Assembly

Dr. Samuel B. Cummings, Professor of Psychology at Kenyon, spoke recently before an audience of students and faculty at Amherst College on the topic: A Study of Mental Inheritance.

Dr. Cummings made the trip to Amherst to discuss in his talk the current state of the nature-nurture theory of inheritance. This theory deals with the age-old discussion of heredity and environment. Recently, a great deal of time has been spent in the study of this field by many of the outstanding psychologists in the country and much advancement has been made toward a clearer understanding of it.

Singers Collect Kenyon Song In Publication

A new collection of Kenyon songs has just been brought out on the Hill. Called "The Kenyon Singers' Song Book," it contains both the words and music of eighteen songs, in mimeographed form. The cost is 25 cents in Gambier, or by mail 30 cents and tax paid.

This collection prepared because the older book, "Songs of Kenyon," edited by Alfred Kinsley Taylor, '06, is now out of print, and the Kenyon Singers needed some sort of song-book to give them a text of words and music that they could agree on. The lack of this has been keenly felt since the old book ceased to be available. The new collection is of course a modest one, but the hope is that it may not only serve an immediate purpose but also stimulate interest in the forming and printing of a still larger collection, because Kenyon, with the pride it takes in its singing tradition, should not be without a fine Song Book.

Many of the Alumni will probably want copies of "The Kenyon Singers' Song Book." Some will want to learn the newer songs. Others will want to compare what may be new versions of old songs with the versions sung in their own time. And above all it is hoped that this book will stimulate constructive criticism from Alumni on how the collection might be

This book is the Kenyon Singers' own venture; both the editing and the financing of it have been done by them. Mail orders should be sent, with the remittance of 25 cents, to The Kenyon Singers, Gambier, Ohio.

LORDS SWIM TO VICTORY

KENYON WINS O. CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIP FOR THIRD CONSECUTIVE TIME

The "Yankees" of Ohio Conference swimming, Coach Imel's Purple mermen, won their third consecutive championship in the new Bowling Green pool last Saturday afternoon. Breaking the conference record in the first event and following this up with two more record-breaking performances during the afternoon, the undefeated Lords annexed their tenth and most important victory of the current campaign.

The first record performance of the final round came in the 300-yard relay in which Capt. Griffin, Tanner, and Flynn covered the distance in 3 minutes 13.2 seconds. Tom Monaghan followed this immediately with a 2:27.7 stunt in the 220-yard free style and the final new mark was set by Bob Tanner in the 200-yard breast stroke in which he was clocked in the brilliant time of 2 minutes 33 seconds.

The Imelmen amassed a total of 46 points in defending their title and nosed out Kent State who tallied 40 points. The two leaders were followed by Oberlin, Wooster, Case, Wittenberg, and Bowling Green in that order.

Harvard Crimson Sees Red

Record Breaker Muffed By Celler

(By Associated Collegiate Press)
Charles N. Pollack, Harvard senior, has a very, very red face—and here's why:

When the Crimson relay swimming team decided to make a try for a new record in the 800 yard distance, Pollack was chosen to call out the laps to the swimmers from the edge of the pool. The first three mermen turned in excellent times, and the fourth member of the team was well on his way to breaking the established record, when—Caller Pollack became over-excited, fell into the water atop the record-breaker!

He fled from the pool—with the swimmers doing some tall calling of their own in his direction!

New Grid Schedule For Kenyon Lords

Purple Eleven Meet Three New Squads

Denison's football team was notably absent on the Kenyon 1940 schedule as released this morning by Athletic Director R. J. Kutler. Other 1939 opponents that are absent from the new schedule are Holbrook and Findlay. The new squads that face the Purple eleven next year are Otterbein, Marietta, and Rochester.

There will be three home engagements and four trips to foreign fields during the coming campaign. Marietta occupies the honor spot on the schedule as the Pioneers come to Gambier on Oct. 12 for the Homecoming game, while Bluffton will offer the opposition on Dad's Day.

Sept. 28—Capital at Gambier.
Oct. 5—Otterbein at Westerville.
Oct. 12—Marietta at Gambier, (Homecoming).

Oct. 18—Heidelberg at Tiffin.
Oct. 26—Hobart at Geneva, N. Y.

Nov. 2—Rochester at Rochester, N. Y.

Nov. 9—Bluffton at Gambier, (Dad's Day).

Trackmen Open Season With Indoor Practice

Kutler Announces Track Schedule

In order to have his men in the best possible shape for the coming track season, Coach Kutler has already begun indoor practice. Kutler wants to take every advantage the short outdoor preseason training has to offer; he plans to have his charges in top shape before the spring thaw makes it possible to go out of doors to practice.

Capt. Puffer, Wende, Brown, Shaw, Michels, Mast, McMullin, Stevens, Huff, McPherson, Brown, Kaufman, and Ahrens, are last year's varsity men upon whom Kutler is counting to bear the brunt of the burden of this year's team. In addition to these men the following sophomores show promise, Ledeman, J. Lewis, J. Wilson, W. Wilson, Sawyer, Reinheimer, Konopak, Kingery, Anderson, Graham, and Lumbert.

All other men interested in track are urged to come out for the team. But Kutler warns that any slackers will be immediately dropped from the squad. Regular attendance at practice is necessary, and any member on the squad who does not attend regularly will not be considered eligible for a letter even though the other requirements are met. Practice begins each afternoon at 4:45 until further notice.

61-26 Defeat Ends Kenyon Schedule

The "when do we win" Kenyon cagers went down to their last ignoble defeat of the season at the hands of Heidelberg quintet on the winners court last Saturday night. The 61-26 defeat was the twenty-fourth setback suffered by the Lords in 27 encounters during the past two years. Even more humiliating was the fact that this victory was only the third of the year for the Student Prince squad.

The ultimate winners took the lead at the outset and never relinquished the margin during the course of battle. Although the Hafelimen made a battle of it during the first five minutes, they soon fell behind and were on the short end of a 32-18 count at the intermission.

Andy Anderson, tall Lord forward, played a fine game under the basket as well as sharing scoring honors for the evening with Zalar of Heidelberg, each with 19 markers.

McNeill Bows To Riggs In Finals

Kenyon Star Loses Championship

Don McNeill bid for a second National Indoor Tennis Championship was halted on Saturday, in New York City, but it took Bobby Riggs, ranked as the country's best, to do it. Played before the largest crowd to jam the seventh regiment armory since the hey day of Big Bill Tilden and Rene Lacoste, Riggs' victory in five sets made him even up with Don as far as tourney finals go. Don took the Sugar Bowl laurels from Bobby during the holidays. The victory also made Riggs the first man since Tilden to win the Wimbledon, national grass court, and national indoor titles in the same year.

McNeill breezed through his early matches with little trouble, and then preceded to punctuate his bid with a smashing three set victory over Bowden in the semifinals. Bowden plays a hard smashing game, and is no set up for anyone, especially on the wood courts in the Armory. Don went into the final match with plenty of support, and the gallery was all for him.

McNeill started service, and jumped into a 4-1 lead, taking Riggs' service in the fourth game. He followed up his advantage, and ran out the set at 6-3. During this first set Don was hitting with the same crisp, stinging speed which made Bowden easy prey. Riggs was no match for Don at this point.

In the second set Riggs' versatility and change of pace began to assert itself, and Riggs attacked more frequently. His volleying and stronger service evened up the score, with Don getting only one game, the second. The third set also went to Riggs at 6-4.

Again in the fourth set the complexion of the match changed, and Riggs, who had been a ball of fire leading at two games to one fell victim to Don's control and speed. Don was at his best in this fourth set, and Riggs failed to win another game as McNeill won five straight. The game score was 6-2.

The fatal fifth found McNeill leading at two one, but the lead was short lived. Riggs made an unbeatable rally, and attacking with placements angled volleys, service took command of the play. He won the set and match at 6-2. His final service was an ace.

Middle Hanna Wins From Middle Kenyon

In their intramural basketball tilt this week, the Middle Hanna outfit capped the boys from Middle Kenyon by a score of 12 to 5. The players on the Hanna team were Lees, Borges, Reinheimer, Storm, Ahrens and Snellman; the MK Quintet was Greeley Michener, Tyler, Penn, Kaufman, and Kopf. ## Alumni Office Aids Seniors In Search For Employment

Placement Office Clearing House For Information Concerning Jobs

With the great expansion in business and industry during the last two decades the demand for college graduates has increased until now about one-half of them seek and find employment in these fields each year. Most large corporations operate training schools for college graduates and many send representatives to the colleges each winter and spring to select seniors to develop for responsible positions.

Almost every college offers its graduates assistance in finding jobs through the medium of a placement bureau or of an alumni office of appointments. In the majority of cases this work is handled by the office of the alumni secretary or its affiliated branches. Kenyon has never offered such a service because in recent years there has been no permanent alumni office with headquarters in Gambier. Now that the alumni office is a reality the machinery is in motion to build up a series of strong contacts with reputable businesses and industries and to encourage their representatives to interview the Kenyon seniors who are pointing for careers in these fields.

In cooperation with the offices of the Dean and the Registrar, complete records will be kept of each registrant for the information of the firms with which contacts have been made. In other words the placement bureau will be a clearing house for information on business and industrial opportunities for Kenyon College students.

The first of a series of blank forms is now available in the alumni office to the seniors who plan to seek employment upon graduation.

The Kenyon alumni who are engaged in business will supply information regarding occupational opportunities from time to time. The experience and wisdom of these men will be of value to the placement office in its effort to assist Kenyon men to attain more easily the goal for which they have set out to prepare themselves.

Maury '04 Describes Start Of Alumni Council

Matthew F. Maury, '04, founder of the Alumni Council, and President of the Alumni Association of Philadelphia.

We reprint below a letter concerning the founding of the Alumni Council by its founder, Matthew F. Maury, '04. It was written to Mr. Wm. Turner, the Alumni Secretary. Mr. Maury has been one of the most active, interested, and loyal members of the alumni group for thirty-six years.

February 17, 1940

Mr. William G. Turner
Permanent Alumni Secretary of the Alumni Council,
Kenyon College,
Gambier, Ohio.

Dear Mr. Turner:

Your kind air mail letter of February the 15th asking me to write a few words concerning the founding of Kenyon's Alumni Council and its raison d'être was received on the 16th.

I had been keenly aware for many years after my graduation, and also vaguely so as an undergraduate, that there was not much concentric thought (except in isolated cases) being given by Kenyon's Alumni to the fusing into one common denominator the loyalty of her scattered sons.

One evening in October 1921, I journeyed with a friend to the Campus of Amherst College and as an invited guest attended a meeting of their Alumni Council in a great hall, not unlike our Rosse Hall, and listened there, awe struck, to their tremendous enthusiasm and orderly transaction of the business in hand. The occasion was the celebration of the One Hundredth Anniversary of the founding of Amherst College.

At that time the Council of the College had been functioning for quite some time, so this was no spontaneous outburst born of the moment, but one that sprang from a foundation truly established and efficiently managed.

I left the meeting firmly resolved to try to apply the inspiration, which this meeting had given me, as a clearer birth to Kenyon's needs, so that her Alumni might be knit together in a closer and more useful body than they ever had been before.

A number of years of hard pioneer work followed. At first alone, and then with one or two others, and finally our present organization was born. The time and expense that it entailed individually has been worth the cost, and I look forward always to the future with faith, and with thanksgiving in my heart for what has been done in the past, and what will, I am sure, follow in the future.

The changes wrought in Alumni support and real interest in the problems of the College is probably not clear to the undergraduates of today who never knew anything else than what they enjoy now or to even some of the recent graduates.

To those of us, however, who have witnessed a longer span perhaps, can of course realize that the seed of cooperation and loyalty sown through the Alumni body as a whole by the subtle influence of our very existence has at times no doubt stirred many to greater exertions and sacrifices to the glory of God and of Kenyon College.

Unfortunately all my early correspondence, of which there is a vast amount, is in storage and hard to get at, so I cannot give you more of the early days at this time, but our Council minute books tell the story. Peirce Hall does likewise, and the long line of other gifts that have followed since then not only from Kenyon graduates but from those who have been sought out, and influenced by our Sons, also attest these facts.

Thanking you for giving me the privilege of saying these few words in your columns to you, and all our Alumni, undergraduates and friends, I am

Faithfully and sincerely,
Matthew F. Maury,
Founder of Alumni Council

Don Mell Is Class Reunion Chairman

Turner To Assist Permanent Secretaries

Class reunions for Commencement, 1940, are again under the capable direction of Donald C. Mell, '21, who has so ably and successfully handled them for the past several years. This year Don is confidently expecting the classes ending in 0 and 5 to convene in unprecedented numbers to compete for the William F. Peirce Cup, awarded each year to the class having the greatest percentage of men returning.

Several secretaries of reunion classes are getting an early start in reminding their classmates to return for a week-end of conviviality amidst the sentimental surroundings which every Kenyon man loves. R. Wells Simmons, Secretary of the class of 1930, has already availed himself of the service provided by the Alumni Secretary's office in Gambier in supplying complete lists of the names and addresses of the various classes, and in addressing the envelopes and printing the letters to be returned to the secretaries for mailing. All class secretaries should get in touch with Bill Turner, Alumni Secretary, who will be glad to assist them in every way possible in their efforts to bring back, once again, their companions of college days.

Class night will take place on Sunday, June 9, in front of Old Kenyon. Lighted transparencies will be placed in the windows of that historic building, each bearing the numerals of one of the reunioning classes. Many of the old entertainers and a number of new discoveries will be present to round out the program.

Kenyon is counting on you, so make your plans now to return for the most successful commencement in Kenyon history.

Chalmers To Alumni

To the Alumni:

The printed matter of many colleges and their methods of interpreting themselves to the public at large, such as alumni organizations, frequently prepare the stranger for a better college than he finds on intimate acquaintance on the grounds. In Kenyon, that situation is reversed, our usual experience being that the stranger who has read our literature and observed the few organized activities of our alumni is surprised on visiting Gambier to find a college so up-to-date, so well organized, so effective, and in all departments doing a superior job judged in terms of modern American college life. In the vernacular, we have somewhat undersold ourselves.

The establishment of a permanent alumni office is one of the most important steps in providing a constant channel of description and interpretation of the College to all that part of the public who ought to be well informed about Kenyon: to prospective students, their parents and teachers, and to all the collegiate public naturally interested in any vigorous and distinguished center of higher education not to speak of the headmasters and principals of the leading schools. The election of Bill Turner as Alumni Secretary and the strenuous efforts on the part of the officers of the Alumni Council and many generous alumni to ensure the organization and continuance of the Alumni Office represents real achievement. We now have a splendid secretary and a good office. I earnestly hope that Kenyon men will support it continuously and with enthusiasm. You may be sure that the College will give the secretary assistance and will cooperate with him at every turn.

Dr. Gordon Keith Chalmers

Chalmers, Reeves Talk At Cleveland Banquet

Kenyon Singers Honored At Alumni Meeting

The Alumni Association of Northern Ohio entertained the Kenyon Singers at the largest and most spirited meeting held in several years. The Mid-Day Club in Cleveland, was the scene of the gathering on Saturday, February 24, with about one hundred twenty five in attendance. Throughout the luncheon the Singers vied with a select table of alumni vocalists for the honors in rendering a number of college and fraternity songs. Both groups were roundly applauded for their excellent work.

President Reg Wells introduced Dr. Chalmers and Dr. Reeves, the guest speakers, both of whom gave interesting and enlightening talks. Anthony D. Eastman, Director of Admissions, and Bill Turner, Alumni Secretary, were also present from the College.

Alumni Dance

Guy Prosser announced that the plans are already complete for the Alumni-Undergraduate Dinner Dance which will be held on March 30th at the Cleveland Club located in the Tudor Arms Hotel. Painstaking arrangements have been made to provide good music, good food, and a variety of entertainment for those who attend. The tickets are five dollars a couple for the dinner and dance and it is hoped that many alumni and undergraduate who are residents of Cleveland and vicinity will take advantage of the gracious invitation of the Association of Northern Ohio to attend and to help make the party a great success. Tickets may be secured from Guy W. Prosser, 215 Cuyahoga Building, Cleveland, Ohio.

As an added attraction at the luncheon, Harold "Hi" Smith, '17, entertained and regaled the group with some very clever and unique piano playing. "Hi" was so good that Bill Uhler immediately colored him for an appearance on the program at the Alumni Dance.

Cincinnati Alumni Hear Dr. Chalmers

About forty enthusiastic members of the Association of Cincinnati heard President Chalmers' interesting report of conditions on the "Hill" and of the state of learning in Gambier at a successful dinner meeting at the University Club on Friday evening, December 8. William H. Kite, Jr., '09, Acting President since the death last summer of Patterson Pogue, '18, presided and, following Dr. Chalmers' address, introduced James G. Stewart, '02, Mayor of Cincinnati, as the next speaker. His appropriate remarks were punctuated with a number of absorbing anecdotes.

The other speakers on the program were Stuart McGowan, '28, Registrar of the College, Anthony D. Eastman, Director of Admissions, who discussed the problems of new student work and the part which the alumni play in it, and Bill Turner, '36, Alumni Secretary, who reported on the alumni office, its functions, purposes, and plans for the future.

Secretary Joe Scherr, Jr., made an announcement, which was applauded heartily, that the sum of $150.00 a year for four years has been pledged by the members of the association which supplemented by $400.00 a year from the scholarship funds of the College will make up the $2200.00 Cincinnati Alumni Prize Scholarship to be awarded to a Cincinnati high school senior in April, 1940. The recipient of this coveted prize will be determined by successful participation in the Prize Scholarship Examinations which will be held in the latter part of April.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, William H. Kite, Jr.; Vice-President, R. Gale Evans, '26; Secretary-Treasurer, Joe Scherr, Jr., '29. The new alumni council representatives are Frank Wright, '09, and Ralph Gordon, '08.

Philadelphia Meeting

Dr. Reeves, President Chalmers, and Bill Turner were guests of the Alumni Association of Philadelphia at the annual dinner meeting which took place at the University Club on Monday evening, January 22nd, with Matthew F. Maury, '04, presiding. The group of about twenty men was saddened because of the death, four days before, of The Reverend Charles H. Arndt, D.D., '89, a loyal, devoted son of the College and one of its most beloved alumni. A letter of sympathy, written by Matthew F. Maury, was signed by all members of group and sent to Mrs. Arndt and her three sons, John, '21, David, '24, and Robert, '27.

President Chalmers gave an interesting report of current progress at the College, followed by an address by Dr. Reeves. Mr. Maury, the founder of the Alumni Council, reviewed the history of that body and discussed the purposes for which it was founded. He stressed particularly the value of permanent alumni headquarters at the College with a full time secretary to carry on the work. Bill Turner, the new Alumni Secretary, was called upon to tell about the alumni office and its functions.

In Memoriam

The Rev. Dr. Lewis Brown

The Rev. Dr. Lewis Brown, Bexley, '82, rector emeritus of St. Paul's Church, Indianapolis, died on November 20. He had been in charge of St. Paul's for 35 years, and was known throughout Indiana because of his lodge and social service work.

William W. Hearne

William Weston Hearne, 1883 A.B., died December 18, 1939, at his home in St. David's, Pennsylvania. Mr. Hearne was active in business as an importer of iron and manganese until his death. He was 80 years old.

Mr. Hearne was one of the last surviving members of the Kenyon Chapter of Theta Delta Chi, the second National Greek Letter Society of which a chapter was established at the College. Theta Delta Chi was established at Kenyon College in August, 1864, disbanded by the Civil War in 1861, re-established March 19, 1870 and finally withdrawn in 1888. Though several strong attempts were made to do so in the last thirty years, it was never revived on the Hill.

In June of 1938, Mr. Hearne returned to the Hill for his fifty-fifth Reunion at which time he was the only member of his class present, and the oldest living alumnus to attend the reunion exercises. Always an enthusiastic Kenyon man he talked before the reunion classes that weekend. In Philadelphia he regularly has attended Kenyon alumni luncheons, and seldom has missed a tennis match around that city when a Kenyon man has been playing. In November, 1939, he spent an afternoon on the Hill on the way East from Chicago.

Mr. Hearne is survived, among other close relatives, by Robert B. Brown, '11, Harry W. Brown II, '37, and Robert B. Brown, Jr., '40, grandsons.

Alfred Hoyt Granger

Alfred Hoyt Granger, '87, designer of Peirce Hall, nationally known architect, and a former trustee of Kenyon, died at his home, Few Acres, Roxbury, Conn., on December 3.

Born in Zanesville, Ohio, Mr. Granger was the son of Judge Moses Moorhead Granger and Mary Hoyt. He was a great nephew of General William T. Sherman and of John Sherman. In his youth he spent much time in their company and in that of Henry Adams, and was thus part of the group known as "The Souls."

After graduating from Kenyon, where he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, in 1887, Alfred Granger studied architecture at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and at the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris. Thereafter he entered upon a career which made him one of the best known architects in the United States. Among the many important buildings he designed, Peirce Hall is among the finest and is the most familiar to Kenyon men.

Mr. Granger was a major of engineers in the World War. He was a Fellow of the American Institute of Architects and the American Association of Engineers.

Mr. Granger was author of "Life of Charles Follen McKim," "England's World Empire," "Chicago Welcomes You," and "Spirit of Vienna."

Otis Harlan

Otis Harlan, K.M.A., Kenyon '87, retired film comedian, died in Martinsville, Indiana, on January 20. He was a native of Zanesville.

After a successful stage career Mr. Harlan became a screen actor in 1920 and took part in such films as "Lightin'," "Showboat," "Midsummer Night's Dream," and "The Student Prince." Recently he was the off-stage voice of "Happy" in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

The Rev. Dr. Charles H. Arndt

Rev. Dr. Charles Henry Arndt, Iota '89, for many years rector of Christ Church, Germantown, Philadelphia, died on January 19th in Hahnemann Hospital following an illness which began shortly after Thanksgiving when he was stricken with a heart attack. He was in his 76th year.

Dr. Arndt was a native of Adrian and Sundusky, O., and attended Kenyon college, receiving his B.A. degree in 1889, his M.A. degree in 1892 and his D.D. degree in 1921. He came to the Philadelphia Divinity School in 1892, and was ordained in the priesthood in 1893. At the same time he became assistant to the rector of Christ Church, Rev. John B. Falkner, whose daughter, Helen Moore Falkner, he married in 1898.

He was associate rector of the church from 1894 to 1896, when he took a year's leave of absence to take charge of the Church of the Holy Spirit, at Nice, France. Returning he became rector of Christ Church until 1934, when he took charge of the American Episcopal Church in Rome, Italy.

He retired in 1936. Since that time he made his home at the Chesham Arms, Chestnut Hill.

He was a Mason, a member of the Psi Upsilon Fraternity and an honorary member of the Union League, Philadelphia.

Dr. Arndt was one of our most beloved Kenyon Alumni and all those who remember him will feel deeply grieved at his passing.

He is survived by his wife and three sons, John F. Arndt, '21; David E. Arndt, '24; and Robert N. D. Arndt, '27.

The Rev. Dr. Ernest Sunderland

The Rev. Dr. L. Ernest Sunderland, Bexley, '07, died in New York on November 23.

Born in De Kalk, Illinois, he graduated from Middlebury College and from Befley Hall. He served from 1910 to 1919 as mission superintendent in Cleveland, and for the past twenty years had been superintendent of the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society.

Henry G. Dalton

The death of Henry G. Dalton, LL.D., '27, on December 27 ended the career of a man who had intimately connected with Kenyon as trustee and benefactor since 1920.

At the centennial commencement in 1924 Mr. Dalton announced the gift of a science hall to be named for his friend and business associate, the late Samuel Mather. This building, The Samuel Mather Science Hall was designed by Garfield and erected and equipped at a cost of $50,000. Since its opening Mr. Dalton has contributed liberally to increasing its equipment, and his will included a large bequest for the college.

Mr. Dalton was a director of Missouri Pacific and other affiliated Van Sweringen railroads for several years. He was formerly president of the Interlake Iron Corporation, and a director in many well-known industrial organizations.

President Chalmers said of him: "Mr. Dalton was a much-loved member of the board. His leadership was respected and admired, and his generosity to the college has been spontaneous and of long duration. His example has meant a great deal to his many associates in Kenyon affairs. In many respects the impress of his warm and forceful personality is to be found in the college of the present and the past two decades."

Bill Allen '13, Kenyon '44 Is Rancher

Alumnus Lives In Santa Cruz Valley

Winding its way through the Santa Cruz Valley is the river of the same name. Rising almost from the river's bank are the Santa Rita Mountains, dominated by pine clad Mount Baldy which ascends to almost ten thousand feet. Here in the heart of the old cattle country, is one of the most beautiful and romantic spots in Arizona. Here, just outside the half Mexican village of Tubac, Bill Allen, a Psi U from Kenyon—class of '13, has his new, elaborately equipped, guest ranch—just twenty miles from Old Mexico. Bill's warm feeling toward "the college on the hill," his alma mater, prompted him to call this neat little ranch—"Kenyon Ranch."

When Bill was on the Hill he was known among his classmates for his piano playing and renderings on his accordeon. Many a night he was the center of the singing in the Psi U parlor and he is still spreading the fame of Kenyon songs. Active on the campus, he played on the football team and was a member of the glee club—now he is one of Kenyon's most loyal alumni.

After graduating from college, Bill went into business with the Philadelphia Porcelain Company and became president of that firm. Then he spent four years in Europe and returned to go into business with his brother, Stanley Allen—also a Kenyon man—who was president of the Kemper-Thomas Stove Company. But this was not the life for Bill and when his health took him to Arizona he decided to stay there and build a ranch. So now, Bill Allen, has the distinction of being the only Kenyon man to name his company after the college—in fact, the Kenyon Ranch Company is probably the only ranch owned and managed by a Kenyon man.

The professor of speech at Wabash is W. N. Brigrance, author of many widely accepted speech texts, and teacher of nine college professors, among them Dr. Black and Professor Auer, who was here this afternoon. His students have been prize winners in both oratory and debate contests all during his near score of years of teaching. Dr. Brigrance will also judge the final round of the Kenyon TKA intramural speech contest, which will be next Tuesday.

ous with their time and energy in calling on them and talking to them about Kenyon.

"Even a return postcard, filled out with the name and address of a promising boy, is enough to set up a contact which may result in strengthening the entering class. The alumni are the chief source of such contacts; insofar as they are willing to help, the College can count on securing an increasingly fine group of men as undergraduates, and eventually as alumni."

Interviewed concerning the scholarship program of the College, Professor Bayes Norton, chairman of the Faculty Committee on Scholarships, stated that in his opinion the Kenyon Prize Scholarships, offered this year for the third time, are succeeding admirably in bringing to the College a fine type of all-around boy.

"The College now offers annually 12 Prize Scholarships, each covering up to full tuition for four years, $1600. They are awarded to men of general promise on the basis of competitive examinations in twelve subjects usually covered in high schools. The candidate, if a resident of Ohio, takes the examination at Kenyon; otherwise at some convenient center. This year the examinations will be given on April 27th in the following subjects: Mathematics, Chemistry, Physics, Biology, French, Spanish, German, Greek, Latin, English, and American Literature, English Writing, and History.

"Promising candidates who fail to win the competition in their chosen subject are automatically considered for general scholarships. This is one of the strongest features of the plan, and has brought many promising men to the College.

"Through the generosity of various alumni and friends of the College several of the scholarships have been increased so as to cover more than tuition. Scholarships up to $2200, during four years, are available through this means to men who live or go to school in Detroit, Cincinnati, the North Shore of Chicago, and Springfield, Ohio. In addition, the alumni of Knox County have contributed considerable sums to supplement scholarships for Knox County boys."

Dr. Norton expressed the hope that alumni would encourage good relations in before the deadline, April 1st. The Committee has on hand material which it will be glad to send to all prospects suggested by alumni.

Wolfe Discusses Russo - German Pact

goods both from Russia and from Rumania. Whether this delay will have an effect on the future outcome of the European war is still unknown.

What may have a greater effect on the outcome of the war is the antagonism in the Nazi party. The so-called "wild men" including Hitler, Himmler, Hess, Goebbels, and Rosenberg constitute one faction which only desires German unity. The recent bombings in the Munich beer hall and in the Air Ministry in Berlin may be attributed to the desire of one of the factions to gain complete control for themselves. One of the interesting facts in this controversy is that Goering's first assistance is a Jew by the name of Milch. When accused of having a Jew as his assistant, Goering is reported to have said, "When I say a man is not a Jew, he is not a Jew." Incidentally, Herr Goering is the most popular man in the Nazi regime, both in Germany and abroad.

When asked about the part that the United States should play in the present world crisis, Mr. Wolfe stated that this country should stay out of foreign conflicts and attempt to solve its domestic problems. In this regard, he warned the United States not place an embargo upon Japan, which most probably would force Japan to acquire the Eastern possessions of Great Britain, Holland, and the United States and thereby draw us into an unnecessary war.
